

About us

EDELWEISS CONSULTING advises executive managers facing challenging stakeholder arenas and areas of conflict in companies, institutions or associations. Focus is mainly placed on projects in the area of change management, stakeholder communication and involvement, conflict resolution, organisational and strategy development and human resource management.

Furthermore, EDELWEISS consultants support leaders in processes of change, advise them on personal positioning issues and provide them with the necessary set of tools when taking over new responsibilities. Based on our project experience in different business sectors, we are proud of our process know-how and expertise in dealing with complex tasks and situations.

Our products are divided into three different business fields:

In order to meet your individual requirements, we tailor all our efforts to your specific needs. We are a solution-oriented, motivating and critical partner at the same time. Our consultants dispose of the essential capabilities to transform necessary theory into down-to-earth practice. Based on our core company values, each and every activity is coordinated with our clients and all information is treated as highly confidential.
